Global Expertise

A thorough understanding of construction methods, contract law and procedures, mechanical, electrical and process engineering, information technology and local statutory regulations is a pre-requisite for the proper evaluation and assessment of each case. A sound knowledge of contracts, local contract law, statute and policy interpretation is imperative. Only then can a proper assessment of policy liability be made, enabling the policy to be correctly applied, quantum managed and, if relevant, subrogation pursued.

vrs»adjusters

In addition to technical skills, all vrs loss adjusters specialising in the construction and engineering fields have an appreciation and understanding of the aspirations and expectations of all stakeholders, including funders and developers, contractors and the professionals engaged at all levels.

vrs loss adjusters often advise that pre-commencement discussions take place in order to ensure procurement is in accordance with the intentions of the parties and stakeholders involved. At the same time procedures can be agreed to deal with any problems that may develop in the construction period and beyond.

Good working relationships in advance of any loss ensure not only the effective management of claims, but also that expectations are both managed and met.
